Excel Books, 2013. Softcover. Book Condition: New. 2nd edition. Case writing and case teaching skills are increasingly gaining popularity among the faculty members of business schools. Harvard Business School has dedicated itself to case method style of teaching, which is considered its uniqueness. IIM Ahmedabad is considered Harvard's replica in South Asia. Case method teaching is a method of experiential learning. An important aspect of case method style of teaching is the possibility of different perceptions and interpretations. It is an effective learning technology comparable to the unstructured group work adopted by behavioural sciences faculty. It is a powerful technology of learning and has tremendous potential. Case method teaching is an important pedagogy in business schools. Through participant-centred learning, it simulates analysis of real-life situations and facilitates development of analytical skills among students. It is one of the most powerful instruments for learning in classrooms. This book is useful for students pursuing Business Administration/Management Programmes such as MBA, MBM, MBIT, BBA (Hons.), BBIT (Hons.), MCom, BCom (Hons.), and other professional courses such as Chartered Accountancy, Cost Accounting, etc. Executives enrolled in professional development courses from various Business Schools and Management Development Institutions are also expected to benefit from the use of cases for developing problem-solving and managerial decision-making skills. Section A of the book explains the salient features of the Case Study Method. Section B features 34 cases covering a wide spectrum of management topics such as decision-making, entrepreneurial development, rural development, financial analysis, managing changes, marketing, production/operation management, project approval, business policy, procurement management and technology choice. Finally, Section C consists of teaching notes on 14 cases for the sake of guidance and illustration. Printed Pages: 324.
