Excerpt: .Swainson s so-called l)efence further was devoted to laudation of the French Naturalists, in question, intermixed with much irrelevant matter and the ventilation of his own grievance against another French l aturalist il hC Baron dc Ft rtssltc). One apparent assumption of Vigors, however, was properly dealt with, viz: - that there exists a conspiracy among the naturalists of France against those of England. Swainson with some justice added that such sentiments. are implied, no one can doubt who has perused the repeated attacks that have been made upon some of the French Naturalists individually, and upon the whole collectively. Vigors un doubtedly had gone too far in such an assumption, but his language in defense. otherwise, was not more vigorous than Swainson s in animadversion of him or of John Edward Gray:1 short time before. He could not but have anticipated if he did not deliberately provoke a controversy. After a vain appeal to Swainson through the medium of his friends for due reparation for expressions which he was willing to believe originated it1 some strange and untoward misconception (iv, 206, 207), Vigors gave vent to his wrath in A reply to Art. L, No. xxiii, of this Magazine (M. N. I-I., iv, 319-337). He charged Swainson with having had the audacity to accuse another Vigors of having abused the authority intrusted to him as editor of a scientific journal the Zoological Journal by introducing into that work private communications addressed particularly to...
